Stan West would like to thank: Scott "Where's my closet of agency costumes?" West, Mike "If it's not Deathwarrant, I'm not worried" Rogers, John "I DON'T work for E.A.G.L.E.!" Ewoldt, Mike "Faith? Where are you?" Hammond, Lou "Can I buy powered armor as a vehicle?" Ries, Carroll "That #!#!$@%! TEEHHEE is MINE!" Smith, Alan "The lethal baked potatoes" Shelley, David "Bite Betas! ZZZT! Oops" Shelton, Pam "I'm gonna trash him. I'm gonna . . ." Shelton, Theresa "Ba DUMP bump!" Benham

Also a belated BIG THANKS to Rob Bell, Doug Tabb, Sue Tabb, James Dorethy, and Lori Dorethy for all of their wonderful support and guidance in this humble author's first foray into the sinister world of role-playing module creation.

Thanks, too, to Monte Cook for his help and direction on this adventure and to make it a reality.

Tim Keating would like to thank: For reality checking and helpful comments: Jim Elson, Heather Sanders, John B. Sanders Jr., Glen Seymour. Also Ann Dupuis and Liz Tornabene for a few small comments and valuable ego-boosting.

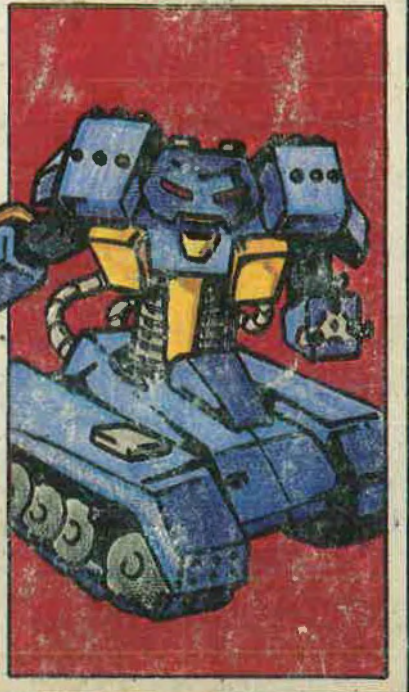

Special thanks to: Joseph V. Leahy, Funeral Director, for his professional input; Scott Fulton, for lending me the copy of Escape from Stronghold that started the whole mess; Loyd Blankenship for GURPS Cyberpunk and Cliff Stoll for The Cuckoo's Egg, both of which were enormously helpful to me in creating the computer hacking bits.

Playtesters: The Knights of Poughkeepsie (Glen "GM" Seymour, Scott "Mentat" Raymond, Ken "Avenging Dragon" Jansen, Keith "X-10" Dombrowski, Kurt "Mighty Quinn" Yonke, Thomas "The Tinker" Im, Rich "Scarlet Fletch" Sleight), Ralph Bardwell, Spurgeon G. Hogan III, JohnnyWhite, Edward Lucas, Harry A. Marsh, Nathan "Nari" Reetz

Cliff Christiansen would like to thank: Patty Wokurka for co-creating Queen Cobra and Ringhals and typing. Guy Wokurka for co-designing all building interiors. Patty "How much do I get for typing this" and Guy "I meant that bathroom to not have a door" Wokurka for MAJOR support and dedication to a pushy dictator. Mr. Fredd "If I see another serpent I'm going to puke" Gorham for supplying fabulous art to this module and for sitting through over 100 hours of Mystery Science Theater 3000 (from Comedy Central) Mr. and Mrs. Christiansen for having the patients to tolerate a warped son. Monte "Just send me the stuff and I'll look at it" Cook for putting up with my constant calling and for him being such a nice guy. Scott "Wait till you see VIPER" Bennie for the rewrite of King Cobra from "Classic Enemies", which I rewrote again. Stephen "I hope you don't mind the extrapolation on your character" Sloane for the first creation of Snake in "Enemies: Villainy Unbound". Bruce "Thanks for inspiring me to write COIL" Harlick for the first creation of Boa Constrictor from "Adventurers Club 2". Scott "Good luck with the little one" Heine and Scott "Haven't we seen this name before" Bennie for inspiration and guidance as well as just being a "Scott" on the phone. Roy "I wouldn't have made that character that way" Ashcraft, Greg "The fount of all knowledge" Lloyd and James "Runner-up for speed dice counting" Davis for character creation assistance and inspired logic(?) Bob "How many errors can I find on this page" Jenks, Pat "College has done you well" Runge, and Bruce "Anybody who knows computers will tell you that's wrong" Tong for editing here and there, here and there. John "Andre" "Nuff said" Scheibeler for coming up with the "Serpentine Circle" name on the spur of the moment. Rob "I can't remember your last name" for coming up with the "Constrictor Commandos" name and letting me use his brain to bounce ideas off of. Todd "You can't use Power Surge" Hansen and Terry "Can't think of anything to put here" Meadows for added play testing and constructive criticism(?) Heath "Will you get me the hundred dollars as soon as your check from Hero comes in" Hickman and Tim "My Amiga could do this better" Pilger for trying to aid me when I really needed the help. Carl "No, not everybody gets up at 10 o'clock in the morning" Cravens and the rest of "Clockwork Hero" for added incentive, inspiration, and "timely" advice. Loren "Yes, Loren, you're finally mentioned" Elifrits for saving my hide when Patty's computer crashed. And last but not least, the many groups that I have played with: The Dawn Patrol, The Avenging Angels, C.A.P.E.R., and all the others that I can't remember the names of. (Do not ask me to decipher the anagram! I can't remember!)

You are our only hope.

A mad computer, a murderer killing supers, and a whole organization of slimy snake-guys—run of the mill fare for a group of heroes? Hardly.

Champions Presents #2 is a brand new compilation of adventures, characters, and organizations for Champions.™ MAVRIC is an adventure that pits the heroes against a crazed computer out to wreck their lives. Murder in Stronghold is a super-powered mystery that the characters must solve before time runs out... for them. Coil describes in detail the organization of King Cobra, the most notorious of master villains.

Champions Presents #2 includes not just adventures, but dozens of new characters, groups, vehicles, robots, bases—come on, do you need any more? Well, if you do, there are also extensive guidelines and tips for running a murder mystery (with super heroes in mind), suggestions for further adventures, and plenty of interesting robot-building techniques.

Champions Presents #2 will enhance any campaign, and will provide hours of fun and challenge for any player, any power level. What are you waiting for? You know it's going to be good...
